Farmingville, NY - Recently, Councilwoman Jane Bonner attended an art exhibit at the Rocky Point home of artist Steve Sandberg to commemorate the 13th anniversary of 9-11. Mr. Sandberg, a pen and ink artist is a retired elementary school teacher. He was with his class in East New York on the Brooklyn-Queens border when the attack on the World Trade Center occurred in 2001.

"Steve's artwork really captures what many of us felt during that tragic time in our nation's history," said Councilwoman Bonner. "The events of 9-11 changed our country forever and these images remind us that we must never forget the people whose lives were lost on that fateful day."

Mr. Sandberg's artwork has been displayed at the North Shore Library, the Flushing Library, and is available to view on You Tube. He has also published a book of his work titled, "Images of Infamy." Pictured left to right are Mr. Sandberg, Michael F. Ring, Superintendent of the Rocky Point School District and Councilwoman Bonner.
